2021 Center for Interdisciplinarity Transdisciplinary Graduate Fellows Symposium

FRIDAY, AUGUST 27
10:00 AM – 12:00 PM EDT
via Zoom
<https://msu.zoom.us/j/97417939635>
Passcode: TGFP

Tackling complex problems requires responses that involve collaborations between experts from different disciplines. The MSU Center for Interdisciplinarity (C4I)'s Transdisciplinary Graduate Fellows Program (TGFP) is a new fellowship program in which teams of graduate student fellows work with local community partners to address complex, real-world problems. The program is transdisciplinary in the sense of providing an interdisciplinary team of graduate students the opportunity to conduct research alongside a non-academic, community partner.

2021 Community Partners

- Opening Remarks: Michael O'Rourke (C4I Director) and Stephanie E. Vasko (C4I Managing Director)
- Presentation from Arts Council of Greater Lansing Team: Soohyun Cho (PhD Candidate, Department of English), Kwabena Edusei (PhD Candidate, Department of Philosophy), Jada Similton (PhD Student, Department of English)
- Presentation from Food Bank Council of Michigan Team: Anicca Cox (PhD, Department of Writing, Rhetoric, and American Cultures), Michael Stokes (PhD Student, Department of English), Mahdi Zareei (PhD Student, Department of Community Sustainability)

THATCamp MSU - Digital Humanities Virtual Unconference on 8/26/2021

(On behalf of the THATCamp Planning Team: Leah Morin, Stephanie Vasko, Kate Birdsall, Max Evjen, Kristen Mapes)

You and your colleagues are invited to join us for a Digital Humanities THATCamp, taking place on Thursday, August 26, 9:00am - 2:00pm. The event will take place virtually, and attendees are welcome to drop in and out throughout the day. There will also be an in person Ice Cream Social from 3:30-5:00pm outside Linton Hall (weather permitting).

Register by Sunday, August 22. The meeting link and information will be emailed to attendees in the days before the event.

THATCamp (which stands for "The Humanities and Technology Camp") is a gathering where the agenda is set by attendees on the day of the event based on what people want to learn and/or share. It is an event where students, staff, and faculty from any discipline and from all skill levels learn and build together in sessions proposed, led, and voted upon by the community.

At DH@MSU THATCamp, we create space for meeting fellow members of the community in informal networking sessions, and we encourage people to share their work in impromptu discussions and workshops. There is also time for a project showcase, when community members can share very short prepared or impromptu remarks about their projects and work.

Also, there will be a raffle!

The goals of DH@MSU THATCamp are:

1. To bring people back together at the beginning of the academic year
2. To introduce new folks to the DH@MSU community
3. Build connections between community members for future collaborations, troubleshooting, and less formal interactions

Who is THATCamp for?

This is an opportunity for people, whether formally a part of the DH@MSU community or not, to gather, learn from each other, and make connections to carry forward into the academic year. We welcome:

- * Members of the DH@MSU community, old and new
- * Students in the Digital Humanities undergraduate minor or graduate certificate, and students interested in the minor/certificate
- * Humanists who are engaged in digital and computer-assisted research, teaching, and creation
- * Anyone doing or interested in exploring work in the digital, especially (but not exclusively) in the areas of arts, humanities, and social sciences
- * Family members (kids)

This is a flexible, family- and pet-friendly event.

THATCamp is free, but requires advance registration. Please register by Sunday, August 22 and find the tentative schedule here.
